

I live in Indiana, where we already have a Telephone Privacy Law. I have found this to be incredibly beneficial. The law has reduced my unwanted solicitation phone calls dramatically, from approximately 20 per week to one or less per week. I truly appreciate not being taken away from family time, work-at-home time, and meal time to answer the telephone for calls I do not want. Also, I am glad to no longer be getting the "hang-up" calls that occur when telemarketers use electronic equipment to dial more than one telephone at a time, picking up the first that answers and disconnecting the rest.

Please do not do anything that would make our law in Indiana less effective and afford us less protection from these unwanted calls.
